Monthly REPORT - March 2013

Introduction

As the war still continues in Southern Kordofan with a recent decrease in its intensity, authorities continued their campaign of arrests and systematic targeting. Detentions have now spread to other ethnic groups for instance the Missiriya as a result of the state of grumbling among youth groups. The extrajudicial killing recently included the governmental militias commanders by the government itself. In other way the NISS Islamizing forcibly some Christian detainees and ordered them reporting against churches. On IDPs camps issue, lack of water appear aggressively which caused new displacing. All cities of South Kordofan state are hard hit with an unprecedented rise of basic commodities more than the rest of the country as a result of the financial crisis in addition to the war in South Kordofan, and NISS affected the flow of goods.

Security Situation

Since March the Sudanese Revolutionary Front (SRF) started military activities in West Kordofan areas and around the cities of Mujlad and Babanusa. These SRF forces clashed with government troops on 2nd March 2013 in a battle that lasted for more than six hours around the area called Wad Banda in west Kordofan. As a result and other reasons, authorities stepped up their campaign of detaining youths from Misseriya . For the first time in the area, the government military troops had to be transported in civilian vehicles (buses), probably to avoid SPLA ambush and hiding their movement.

Political developments

The political settlement that was recently reached between Sudan and South Sudan led to optimism that a political solution could be found for the conflict in South Kordofan. On 21st March 2013 South Kordofan state governor, Ahmed Haroun visited the cities of Talodi and Eleeri in South Kordofan, in his public speech, he mentioned that peace will come through negotiations. He mentioned that they are tired of war and had realized that the gun would not solve the issue and that the only way is through a negotiated settlement. Also the statements from political leaders in Khartoum went into the same direction (lasted by President Basheir speech 1st April 2013). On the other hand, the SPLM leadership has affirmed statement in its vision for peace (27th March 2013). Therefore, it seems that the two parties are on their way to the negotiation table.

Humanitarian situation

The humanitarian situation remains worrying as no agreement has been reached on the delivery of humanitarian assistance to the displaced and affected people. The situation continues to deteriorate further since no aid agencies are allowed to access the region. Prices of basic commodities continue to escalate; for instance; sorghum which is a staple food has reached 250 SDG per sack (120kgs). A gallon of gasoline is worth 12 SDG, a kilogram of beef is between 40-50 SDG (1 USD=6.5 SDG). Long queues for bread are reported in Abugebaiha.

IDP camps are still being systematically targeted by and there were attempts from the government to evacuate them. Apart from harassment faced by IDP camps from government soldiers, there is general lack of water. For instance, the only borehole at Mabsut camp broke down due to over use as a result of big population in the camp. Also the Wells (ponds) which acted as water sources for Gurdud Nyama IDP camp dried up because the population in camp is big. Currently, a number of IDPs are relocating themselves to different towns and other IDP camps.

Arrests:

Currently, fresh arrests are going on and a number of the Missiriya youths had been included. Detainees in South Kordofan are denied visits by families and friends and are also denied access to legal services and representations. Rare visits are allowed to detainees in Khartoum. Some released under condition of daily base reporting to NISS office (partial release).

Sporadic events

1. On 13th March 2013 AlShazaly Hamad-el-Nil was released after 132 days of detention.
2. All detainees in public service were suspended and their salaries frozen. All the released detainees remained suspended from work because of “absence”. Dismissal procedures were started against some for instance AlShazaly Hamd-el-nil and Galeila Khames.
3. On 11th March 2013 following a medical decision to release her from Khartoum Teaching Hospital (KTH) with a follow up appointment in a month time, Ms. Khadeja Mohammed Badr was forcibly deported to El Obeid Prison where 31 other Nuba women remain in detention. Authorities in the prison refused to allow her into their custody because of her medical condition. The NISS then took Ms. Badr to Kadugli Prison, where prison authorities refused to detain her for similar reasons. Ms. Badr was left abandoned in the court yard of the prison until sunset when authorities allowed her to enter the prison. She spent two days suffering from severe back pain and urine retention due to the refusal from NISS to send her to the hospital. On the third day after she had collapsed, they allowed her to access medical treatment. Up to now she is an in-patient at Kadogli police hospital.
4. Kadogli ladies in El Obeid prison are in a bad condition. Seven of them are suffering from chronic diseases and have not been given opportunity to access proper medical services.
5. The case of the kidnapped girl in Dilling town is still in place, due to her health condition (fainted when she saw her accusers), she was referred to the hospital . Now that her health is better, the second trial was set and it will be on 25th April 2013. In the first trial, it was shocking to everybody since the accusations that were read did not put the Child Act into consideration. In other words the child is still underage (11 years old) which mean there is something cooking for injustice.

6. After 32 days, the Youth Movement in Babanusa called off their sit-down protest after promises of development in the region were made by authorities. Authorities began to implement some of the promises under pressure of resuming the protests in the case of non-fulfillment.
7. Armed robbery groups were reportedly active in the roads between cities of Rashad, Abukrashulah and Elfaid Umm Abdullah, forcing civilians to take other longer bypass roads along or across the city of Um Rawaba for safety.
8. On the 17th March 2013, the Popular Defense Force militia commander Ismail Noreen was summary executed along with two sons (Muhammad and Omar) in Moring area by the government army following a public argument with his local commissioner/governor.
9. A Christian missionary (named I.T) was forced by NISS to declare his conversion to Islam.
10. On 30th March 2013 a group of Missiriya youth released from Kadogli where they deported from Missiriya area when arrested on 13th February 2013, due to their protestation within Ahammed Khames (deputy of South Kordufan governor) El Mairam's visit on 10th February 2013.

Other Issue

Mr. Adam Rekhais and Mr. Mohammad Haroun, are two members of the opposition to the previous Government of the Central African Republic stationed in Um Dafouk area close to Sudan's border, were arrested in Nyala on 26/10/2011 and deported to Khartoum on 06/12/2011, released on 4th April 2013.

Appeal:

Civilians of South Kordofan State both inside and outside the state continue to face worsening living conditions day by day. Detainees continue to endure conditions degrading to human dignity in detention centers and jails while being denied visits by family members and friends. Detainees are also denied access to legal representation. We continue to make an urgent appeal to the international community to exercise pressure on the Sudan government to allow local and international aid organizations access to deliver aid to the needy and to monitor and document human right abuses. We also call for an international fact-finding mission to investigate the conditions and numbers of detainees and missing individuals and to determine responsibility.
